In these uncertain times the CBI will follow directives from the state and the institution about when and how to reopen. The University leadership has started strategizing in preparation for this process, and once we have a clear idea of how to proceed it will be posted on the CBI website (CBI.pitt.edu). Please be patient, we are all anxious to get our science back on track, and we will make every effort to make that happen as soon as it is reasonable to do so.